BRUNSWICK

LATE FLOWERING

Brunswick is our newest white oat (avena sativa). Targa is and will likely remain our stalwart variety, for sometime. Nevertheless we have identified brunswick as our new champion. Brunswick has a very late heading date producing very high quality hay and grazing.

The leaves are wide maximising production. The plant is a moderate tall variety especially under irrigation. When a number of other varieties on trial got rust, the leaves of Brunswick remained clean. This results in a high tolerance to leaf diseases.

BRUNSWICK is better suited to high rainfall areas or under irrigation, where it exhibits excellent early vigour. Under dryland conditions it is slower to establish.

- Very late heading means an extended production period
- Very prolific tillering variety with extremely strong regrowth
- Excellent leaf & stem thickness
- Strong recovery
- Excellent leaf rust tolerance
